ENGLISH GIRL WRITES OF LIFE IN LONDON

The following excerpt from a letter recently received by Miss Alzena Lord from a girl correspondent in London gives an idea of the actual conditions in the warbombed city and the attitude of morning when a brick from a wall defeated by a Wilton Academy residents toward conditions. The above fell and hit him. This is the writer is now working instead of first accident on this work which attending school, as evidently no which has been underway three schools are in session there now. It is interesting to note the young lady's acceptance of surrounding destruction and the apparent intention to carry on.

"Your letter arrived this morning after I had given up hope of it ever reaching me. Although wa must expect delay it did seem an extra long time coming this time, but next time it will probably be longer still. I shall always answer your letters when I receive them as they are so interesting and I love writing to you; but if at any time you do not hear from me it will be that they have been either sunk or bombed on the way.

"We have been having a terrible time here and I often think of you with envy in your lovely little town so peaceful and happy. I live outside the actual city of London but in rather a dangerous area. You see Clapham Junction is about ten minutes walk away (the sirens have just gone so will carry on later! (1 hour later). As I said before Clapham Junction, the biggest railway junction in the world, is about 10 minutes walk away from us, also we have three big power stations very near and an armament factory also quite near us so we are quite a good target for the bombers.

"I will try to give you some idea | of how we live now bombing has

"Every evening an air-raid starts at approximately 8.30 p. m. and carries on all night until 6 a. m. the next morning. We are very lucky because we live opposite the Swimming Baths and they have a really good shelter which holds about 50 people. At night of course the staff of the Baths are at home and so the Superintendant, his wife and small son and our family have it to ourselves. We have laid wooden boards down about one foot from the floor and we take cushions and blankets over and make ourselves as comfortable as possible. I am able to sleep quite well now: it is surprising what you can do when necessity arises.

"We have good air-raid shelters at work which is a blessing as Fulham (the borough where I work) has been very heavily bombed. Every morning I have to take a different route to work as so many roads are blocked because of bombed houses or time-bombs. Timebombs take about 1-3 days to explode and one just has to wait helplessly for it to go off while everybody who lives in the immediate vicinity have to leave their homes just as they stand and live somewhere else until the bomb has esploded.

Every evening at 7.34 p. m. I change into a pair of navy blue slacks, a thick wool jumper, woollen socks and a warm pair of slippers. These are the most comfortable clothes to wear in a night raid.

THE WAR: Boiling Balkans

Always a question mark in the intrigue of European politics, the Balkan states again are claiming their share of the world spotlight.

When Adolf Hitler's troops marched into Rumania to "protect" Rumanian oil fields and "train" Rumanian soldiers, military experts wondered what effect this would have on the attitude of Soviet Russia toward the axis powers. For Russla, too, is interested in Rumania. More than this Russia is vitally interested in any eastward expansion of the Hitler regime.

At first Berlin reported that Moscow knew and approved of this infiltration. Then news began to come in that the Soviet troops were on the march toward the Rumanian border. Two Rumanian patrol boats on the Danube were reported sunk by the Russians. In the strategic area around the mouth of the Danube both the German and Russian forces were reported to be speedily strengthening their military positions.

Just what Hitler's plans in the Balkans are remained, of course, a closely guarded military secret. There was much speculation centering around two possible motives in won of the oil fields, so vital to the German war machine. These specusative motives were: (1) perhaps the axis powers were attempting to wraw attention away from the British reles in order to launch some sort of a surprise tactic against England, or (2) Germany was using the Balkan route for a march to drive the British out of the eastern Mediterranean regions.

CAMPAIGN:

Reports from the Balkans indicate that Russian troops have massed on the Rumanian border and are keeping a watchful eye on the activities of Hitler's troops who have entered that country. PLANES:

Estimates

According to one conservative British estimator, the Germans have lost close to 6,500 planes in the second world war. This is a whale of an estimate. The planes would be worth around half a billion dollars, which is a lot of money, and in marks is astronomical.

Not only that. There was more to it. The same estimator estimated that the Germans had lost 13,500 pilots. Pilots are much harder to replace than mere airplanes, be they Messerschmitts, Heinkels, Junkers, or Dorniers. It was figured that the Germans had lost three times as many bombers (Heinkels, Junkerot as they had fighters Messerschmitts made in Augsburg). Most of these planes had Mercedes-Benz motors, built in the old Zeppelin ing on two fronts at the same time works on Lake Constance, at Monnheim, and Stuttgart. PROPAGANDA:

Is It Smart?

The British aerial propaganda over Germany continued. It took threatening tone. The British leaflets warned that "the Americans were coming into the war." They warned, too, that the British would yet bomb Germany even harder than the Germans were then bombing England. The leaslets told of the inexhaustible sources of the British empire, etc., etc. This was an entirely different type of propaganda from that the British used, along with their allies, in the first World war. In 1914-18, the German propaganda took a blood-and-thunder tone, while the porting to more than 120,0% polling Allied ditto was mild, humane, and "kindly." Soldier, writer and broadcaster, for the last quarter of a century, Baukhage has covered foreign and domestic news from all parts of the United States and principal capitals of Europe.

WASHINGTON.-It is just about as far from the executive offices of the White House on Pennsylvania avenue to the broadcasting studio as It was from our house on Spruce street back home to the store where my mother used to send me for a loaf of bread (and a stick of 'lickrish" if I had an extra penny). It was on my way to the store one day that I first saw a live man wearing the uniform of the United States. It was my Cousin Ned just starting off for the Spanish-American war in his sailor suit.

I've seen a lot of uniforms since, on the avenue in Washington, too, but I couldn't help thinking as I walked along the other day scuffing the dried leaves that had fallen from the immemorial White House elms, that a lot of nine-year-old kids and older ones, too, are soon going to be seeing plenty of uniforms for the first time, on the streets of the home not delay the way Great Britain did. town, just the way I did, 40 years | We could get it over without a long

Need for Conscript Army in Peacetime

There are certain things about conscription that people are thinking about. According to a lot of letters I get, what many people want to know is why we need a citizen army in peace time.

I put that up to a military man and this is the way he answered me: "Speed is what counts in an army today. We aren't calling out these boys to fight anybody. We are calling them now to train them so they'll be ready if we ever need them, The United States can always raise a big army if war is ever declared. But neither we nor any other country can raise a trained army over right and a let can happen in the night these days. What we want to do is train men for a reserve.

"If this war ends and a dicarmament agreement is reached with all nations we won't need to train anybody any more. Meanwhile these men when they are through their year's service will go home and slip back into their niches in civilian life. But if a war comes they can step into the ranks over night as they would if we were in danger any. how. But they will step back as trained soldiers, not raw recruits." That seemed to me a new way of looking at it It explains why there is a need now. A fire engine wouldn't be much use if you had to teach the firemen how to use it after the house started burning,

Triple Alliance Powers Have Belligerent Attitude Is our house actually in danger of catching on fire now? Well, I am a reporter, not a prophet. The profit motive isn't overemphasized in the reporting business. Furthermore right now the air in these parts is so full of political speeches and other wartalk, just as it is out your way, that you can hardly see across the Potomac on a clear day. The political speeches are so belligerent and the war-talk, especially what we are getting from Rome, Berlin and Tokyo is so political, it takes a fine-tooth comb to separate them. A dispatch from Rome says the axis doesn't want to get us into war and wants to stop our aid to Britain. Berlin says that if we attack Japan, Germany and Italy will attack us. That would get us into the war which Rome says the axis doesn't want. Tokyo says that if we don't let her do what she wants in Asia, Japan will attack us.

Certain people in Washington say if we get into war with Japan we can't help Britain. And so it goes.

Washington Emphasizes Defense, Not Offense

Just now Washington isn't as warlike as it sounds. The emphasis is on defense, not offense. However, there are conflicting views as to what we ought to do.

I talked with an official wno isn't what you would call a fire-eater. He expressed a view which some of the people in the state department agree with.

French Ambassador Has Hard Job

It is hard to find out whether you are at war and if so, with whom, these days. Of course, we are at peace with France. At least we recognize the French ambassador, the suave and amiable Henri Haye.

He has a very hard job because, as everybody knows, the government of Vichy has about the same relationship to the French people as French perfume has to a piece of Limburger cheese. The dachshund's tail wags the French poodle.

And the United States government, which can't admit officially that this is true, acts just as if it knew it all the time. It has frozen French financial holdings in this country. It is as hard for the French government to draw on funds invested here as it is for a Hollander or a Belgian or the citizen of the other occupied countries to get their money-which doesn't make them angry either. Some Hollanders instructed their agents here not to pay out their funds to anybody even if they themselves write letters ordering this done. For, of course, the Nazis could force the owner to order the securities sold and then confiscate the funds and use it themselves.

Well, one of the many ticklish assignments of Monsieur Henri Haye is to try to get the government to loosen up on those French investments. Of course, some funds can be drawn upon for special purposes such as the expenses of the embassy. And there has been a worried rumor that the United States government might have to turn the entire amount over.

Predict Balanced Budget for 1943

With congress and the defense commission bent on seeing that the money appropriated for national defense gets put to work, all the talk is about what's going out and very little about what's coming in. You haven't heard a thing about balancing the budget recently, have you? Well, you will soon. Perhaps before this item meets your eye. For the experts say that we are going to have a $15,000,000,000 budget in 1943 and what is more we are going to be able to balance it.

How will this feat be accomplished?

Simply through normal taxes, they tell us. Production and national income will mount so fast owing to pyramiding defence expenditures. that normal taxes will bring in think most observers here believe it enough maney to get the dizzy old ACTORS usually dread working with children on the stage or in pictures because children, like animals, invariably "steal" scenes. One cut gesture, one little smile from a child can make an Academy Award winner look like a piece of furniture, so far as audiences are concerned.

Nevertheless the members of the cast of "Shepherd of the Hills" were delighted to have four-year-old Virita Campbell in their midst while they were on location in the San Bernardino mountains. On location hours are usually very long, the rule being to shoot from daybreak to sunset to take full advantage of the natural light. Which means that actors, stars and all, get up at 5:30 or thereabouts.

But in the eyes of the state labor law Virita is an infant, so she can't start to work until 8 a. m. Consequently the actors who worked with her got two extra hours of sleep every morning. They brought pressure to bear on Director Henry Hathaway to extend her part so that it would last for the entire six weeks.

Practically all the men stars in Hollywood were fired from perfectly good Jobs before they turned to the movies. Preston Poster suspects that Nelson Eddy got the one he lost, Foster was working on a Philadelphia newspaper, selling classified advertising. He got extra jobs singing in the chorus and in major roles in the La Scala Opera company, that day the boss dropped in at a matince, and there was Foster singing when he should have been out selling advertising!

Meanwhile Nelson Eddy was working as a shipping clerk for an Iron works company in the same elty. He had a habit of bursting into song when he was working hard. The foreman couldn't stand It, so he fired the singer, who promptly got a job on the Philadelphia paper that hadn't appreclated Poster's singing-the job was selling classified advertising.

Open Porch Construction.

OUESTION: I want to build an open porch over an enclosed sun porch. It opens out from a bedroom which has three windows facing south. The three windows are set in one opening. What should be the construction of the flooring; material, pitch and drainage? Which window should be made into the door? Should I provide a storm door for winter?

Answer: The covering on a roof that is to be walked on can be of a prepared canvas, made especially for the purpose. The minimum pitch of the roof should be a quarter-inch to the foot. The surface and framing should be of rigid construction. The canvas should be laid over a No. 2 common flooring of pine, fir or spruce, %-inch thick; not over four inches wide, and must be tongue-and-groove. It should be smooth, with joints planed if necessary. The canvas should be turned up or flashed four to six inches at the walls to insure water-tightness. The middle window is the one to be made into a door. You should by all means put on a storm door for the winter, and also provide good weather-stripping.

Squeaking Stairs,

Question: Stairs from my entrance hall creak and groan. Stairs are straight ascending in one unbroken line. How can I cure the horrid noises that accompany each Answer: That squeaking is from the springing or arching of the treads away from the risers. If the under side of the stairs is open, tighten the wedges that secure the ends of the treads in the grooves of the side pieces; drive them in with a hammer. Otherwise, standing on a tread to weight it down, drive two-inch finishing nails through the tread near the front edge, so that they go into the riser. Nails should be driven in pairs at opposite angles. Sink the heads below the surface with a nailset and fill the holes with wood putty.

Refinishing a House.

Question: What can I use to waterproof the outside of a brick wall? My neighbor does not want me to use black because it faces her yard. Black seems to be the cheapest waterproofing.

OUR BRAND of democracy was won for us, and is being held for us, by men who chose their own careers, owned big farms, built big factories, and did what selling was necessary to keep those farms and factories busy.

One of the biggest aids in mass selling is mass advertising. In the long run, it "polices" itself.

Advertising of poor products always fails. Only a first rate product, fairly priced, can stand the dazzling glare of national advertising. When you think of the heavily advertised soups, soaps, breakfast foods, mechanical refrigerators, automobiles, silverware, radios - you are thinking of the aristocrats among commercial articles.

It was inevitable that the recent Waterford, four from Franklia meeting between Hitler and Mus-Grange, Bryant Pond and one from solini at Brenner Pass should have heen immediately followed by reports that the Axis has completed plans for invading England this fall or winter, bad weather notwithstanding. To some neutral military experts, this is almost incredible-it would involve the gravest and most far-reaching risks that Hitler has as yet taken. Despite that, however, there is at least one sound reason for believ-She also read an original poem ing that the reports may prove written many years ago by one true. the threat of famine, and sometimes the actuality. But it is a reasonable supposition that this war, different as it is from its predecessors in so many ways may be the precursor of greater hunger than the modern world has known. In the past, nations when embarking on the great adventure that is war, have usually Rev. and Mrs. R. Scott Irons and heen fat, prosperous, well-fed. But fol the past were usually fought the nation. There are some who believe that the possibility of famine points to the way that the dictator's grip on Europe may finally be loosened. A hungry people, taey reason, will revolt against their masters-there is little choice between suicide and starvation. But there is another side to this. As Alan Gregg writes in the Yale Review, "There are varieties of starvation. Reduce abruptly all forms of food after an adequate diet, and you will still be strong enough to riot for food; gradually reduce to zero some essential of your diet, and you will finally he too weakened to protest with energy." S. famine in captured nations might actually play into Hitler's hands by lessening the ability of the conquered peoples to effectively protest.

It is not expected that there will be widespread famine this winter. It is considered almost a certainty that it will come in grave form next winter, however, if the war is still going on then, and Britannia still rules the waves. Few experts dare anticipate what Europe will be like if the war lasts four or five years, as some military authorities think it may. The peoples would be literally decimated victims of war who never saw a battle, and never heard the wall of a bullet.

Some in this country would help the conquered peoples with food anl other necessities. But Britain has so far refused to pass relief ships through the blockade, on the very reasonable theory that the dictators would size their cargoes once they were delivered. Europe will not get much help from us.

Fashion-Wise Use Bright, Gay Colors This is developing into a season of gorgeously gay colurs. The tweeds for coats and suits were never so strikingly colorful. Plaids have gone on a rampage of color. Feathers on hats flaunt color to the limit. Accessories are a riot of eyeblinding color.

In costume design a play on color is being made that is startling in effect, but the bold handling of contrast colors is one of the most fascinating gestures fashion records this season. For example, it is chic for a dress to have a neutral colored shirtwaist top, with a skirt which introduces panels of vivid colors. Such a dress could be made of pale beige with sections of scarlet, Irish green and royal blue.

The new black frocks achieve their. dash of color with yokes, vestees or front panel effects made up of green, cerise and purple crepe. Dare as much color as you please and you will be none too colorful this season.

Jumper and Blouse Outsit With Bolero

FOR all school-girls, in the grades and on up through college, the jumper-with-blouse outfit is the very best and most popular of classroom fashions. Every smart shop shows it. Every smart girl wants it. Here it is in a design (No. 1222-B) that can be quickly and economically made at home - with dart-fitted waistline, stitching for trim, and a very youthful, sufficient tailored blouse.

Add the bolero to it, and make a little suit! Several blouses and one jumper and bolero go a long way toward outfitting any girl for school, and giving her the variety she craves. Corduroy, velveteen and flannel are smart for the jumper and bolero; linen, flat crepe or batiste for the blouse.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1222-B is designed for sizes 8. 10, 12, 14 and 11 years. Size 10 requires 21a yards of 54-inch material without map for bidere and jumper; 114 yards 29-inch material for the blouse. Send order to:

Halloween provides a good excuse for an unusual party. The theme you may select should be the basis around which the party is built. 'Black Magic Party," "The Haunted House," Buried Treasure Hunt," "The Witches' Rendezyous," "The Ghosts Gambol" are all suggestive names for the party you may be planning for All Hallows' eve.

A Halloween party without decorations just isn't a party. They may be so simple that it takes very little time to put them up; pumpkins, cornstalks, and lighted jacko'-lanterns. Or you may decorate with witches, owls, black and orange crepe paper streamers, black and gray crepe paper moss dripping from the ceilings, or ghosts standing in spooky corners with eerie lights thrown upon them.

In keeping with Halloween we must not forget the traditional games and pranks. The chamber
